- Escalating Middle East tensions triggered an oil shock & VIX spike, driving global de-risking & worsening India's macro outlook; Major energy supply disruption (>10%) sent oil prices sharply higher: +56.7% in Mar'26 (after +2.5% in Feb'26); Brent now at $113.6/bbl

- INR depreciated 4.1% MoM to 94.83/USD (1 Yr depreciation: 9.9%)

The past month saw the Iran-Israel-US tensions peaking and culminating in heavy air strikes across Middle East, impacting Oil prices across the world and with the Strait of Hormuz closed, prices remain elevated. MSCI India saw a sharp drawdown in Mar'26, with MSCI India (US$) down 14.5%, underperforming MSCI APxJ and MSCI EM by 2.3% and 2.2% respectively, while MSCI India (INR) fell 11.3% over the month. Indian equities were pressured by a global risk-off move tied to escalating Middle East tensions and the resulting oil shock, which worsened India's macro backdrop, alongside INR weakness, record FII outflows, and concerns that higher inflation and input costs could compress corporate margins. Large caps declined 11.5%, underperforming Small and Mid caps by 1.4%/0.9%, and the Nifty 50 fell 11.3% to 22,331. Sector performance was broadly negative, with all sectors ending Mar'26 in the red. The steepest underperformance came from Real Estate (-20.1%), Financials (-18.9%), and Industrials (-17.3%), which led the market's drawdown for the month.

India faces two primary channels of impact from rising tensions in the Middle East: oil prices and remittances. India's dependency on imported crude oil is ~90%, and crude is its largest import. Any sharp increase in oil prices would primarily hurt the trade balance and widen the current account deficit. On a static basis, every $10 per barrel increase in oil prices widens the current account balance by ~0.5% of GDP. The impact on the current account would be significantly larger if remittances from the Middle East to India also come under pressure. India receives ~38% of its remittances from the Middle East, with FY26 remittances estimated at 3.4% of GDP. If oil stays elevated, pressure is likely in consumer discretionary, airlines, chemicals, cement, and logistics, where higher fuel costs and FX pass through feed imported inflation and squeeze margins. Conversely, potential beneficiaries include upstream energy and coal linked names, as well as select refiners — provided crack spreads remain supportive and domestic pricing frameworks permit margin pass through.

The Morningstar Rating TM for funds, or "star rating," is calculated for managed products (including mutual funds, variable annuity and variable life subaccounts, exchange-traded funds, closed-end funds, and separate accounts) with at least a three-year history. Exchange-traded funds and open-ended mutual funds are considered a single population for comparative purposes. The top 10% of products in each product category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars, and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a managed product is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its three-, five-, and 10-year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics. The weights are: 100% three-year rating for 36-59 months of total returns, 60% five-year rating/40% three-year rating for 60-119 months of total returns, and 50% 10-year rating/30% five-year rating/20% three-year rating for 120 or more months of total returns. While the 10-year overall star rating formula seems to give the most weight to the 10-year period, the most recent three-year period has the greatest impact because it is included in all three rating periods.
